MEMBERS DISCUSS TAX EXEMPTION POWERS

Coal Men Face New Taxation

Revenue From Former Act Will be Obtained in New Form

With an appeal to the privacy court, pending over the decision of the supreme court of Canada that the mineral tax of Alberta was ultra vires, members of the coal industry are now considering a new form of taxation on the coal industry of the province to make up the loss of $300,000 obtained annually for the last few years through the tax of five cents a ton on coal.

Coal operators of the northern part of the province conferred with the provincial government yesterday on the taxation proposal, but in view of the failure of the reference to the supreme court, they will now consider the coal tax which would be levied on the coal miners instead of the coal companies.

At the meeting, the meeting here was held.

What form the proposed new tax will take has not been decided upon by the coal men, but it is probable that a tax will be levied on an income tax basis in the coal mining industry.

FEW BAD DEBTS ON CITY BOOKS

Bad debts written off by the electric light department during 1925 amounted only 47¢, or one per cent of the total amount of the year's bills, according to a report submitted to the city council.

The defaulting account, which amount to $2,712, though written off by the electric light department, it is stated, with a view to protection of the customer, was settled Saturday after an illness of nearly two years.

Bad debts accumulating from rentals of city property totaled $2,618 in the same period, but in view of the fact that in nearly every case to indifference of the customer, the debt was due to lack of employment or sickness.

PORT COQUITLAM, Feb. 27.—Thomas & Edwards, working way back midnight in his laboratory on an experiment which may well change the world's rubber trade and change the South from the center of the United States.

The inventor showed newspapers over a three-acre rubber tract on his estate here and said that this time he had a machine that will squeeze the juice from the rubber plant, and a rubber oil plant.

"Henry Ford is a sort of partner of mine in this," he said, "and we're going to work together on the experiment."

INFANT DEATHS AT HULL HOME TO BE PROBED

Officials Suspect Neglect Cause of High Mortality Rate

HULL, Que., Feb. 28.—A coroner's investigation into the deaths of three infants which occurred within a lapse of 12 days at an alleged "babyl farm" in the Wrightville locality of this city, today stated that the results of proceedings against Mrs. Diana Lacroix, white-haired matron of sixty years.

The woman was taken into custody yesterday following a two-week period of strenuous circumstances which were said to have been attached to the death of other babies placed in the care of Mrs. Lacroix.

Four Children Dead

Four young children were declared to have died at the "farm," during the month of January, Coroner G. W. Morrison said yesterday. It was during investigation by the authorities that the deaths took place, and the "farm" was able to move into the small frame house in "Babyl Town" on the night of January 17, and the third on February 3, these dates being more than three months apart.

Think Neglect Possible

Coroners' inquest into the deaths from preliminary inquiries into the three young bodies, has concluded that they were entirely responsible. Two little tots who were removed from the Lacroix home to the Hull hospital, it was found, were in a state of malnutrition, pneumonia.

Mrs. Lacroix was declared by the police to have admitted that she was taking care of disabled children, the care of their mothers. The woman said that the infants who had died were given to her in a state of health when given into her charge.

Dr. Rossine Poutine, assistant provincial criminal analyst, will report at a coroner's inquest here tonight on the results of his examination over the three bodies laid at the undertaking parlor.

CASE AGAINST MERCER BEFORE

Plaint of the sixteen charges of conspiracy to commit murder of the Alberta Refinery Ltd., to be heard before a judge have been preferred against John D. Mercer, president of the company, and director of the refinery, on stock options of $100,000 each, with J. J. Fenway, of the attorney-general's office, in charge of the prosecution.

It was shown that stock delivered to purchasers was Mercer's own stock instead of treasury stock, and the defense claimed that the company stock knew that it was not treasury stock when it was given him in the line of occupancy.

Mr. Fenway proceeded with the trial of General Kitch, of Rawdon, and his wife, Mrs. Kitch, and evidence given by Mrs. G. Burke, widow of the late James Burke, showed that the stock in this important case was given him in certificate of 100 shares held by Robert McDonald. On the witness stand later McDonald said that when his stock had been given to him after he had been dismissed from the bank for the Reimeries last summer, he had given him in the line of occupancy, and when he had handed it back when he took a mortage on all his property, the stocks were made.

Case Proceeding

A. B. McDonald, representing for Mercer, while H. C. Jackson holds a warrant for his arrest, and the value publication of a $100,000 fine, and Mercer for libel and damages, was in court yesterday, playing in the paper some time in January, when he was given a hearing for some of the stocks or shares of the company.

The case is proceeding.

Pancake Feast Of Whole Year Comes Tuesday

On Tuesday, the tenth, that this celebrated pancake, that is, a pancake or flapjack, known as a griddle cake or flapjack, is to be eaten. For Tuesday is an omen day, that is, Tuesday, or as more familiarly known, Pancake Day, in Great Britain, as Shrove Tuesday, or Shrove Tuesday, on which day Lent begins, on which day Lent ends.

In England, Pancake Tuesday takes on the form of a real celebration, with a pancake race, a pancake bell—the shrill bell—ringing a signal for contestants to make the pancakes. Pancakes are supposed to be a little more attractive than those made on ordinary days, because they are consumed, even at the rate of a dozen.

While Shrove Tuesday is celebrated in all lands where Lent is observed, it is most enthusiastically observed in the British empire.

A party of Ukrainian settlers arrived in the city Sunday evening, and will settle in the Edmonton district. All arrangements have been made for their arrival, as well as for their stay with the prospects of a successful trip to the United States. They thought the weather was a trifle cold, as their winter in the Ukraine was very severe, with plenty of rain and snow.

SOVIET UNION WILL CONTINUE PEACE POLICY

Would Welcome Move For Peace On Great Britain's
Part

MOSCOW, Feb. 28.—"Reaffirming the desire for peace among the suffering masses of the Soviet Union, and in furtherance with the wishes of the British government, the Soviet government will continue its policy of peace and good will, and its progressive spirit toward all other countries and will sincerely welcome any mutual and friendly relations with the part of Great Britain which it represents."

The statement was made in reply to Great Britain's threat to break off diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, which British propaganda was discontinued.

Kremlin Press

The statement was prepared by M. Litvinov, acting foreign minister, and handed to William Peters, ambassador of the Soviet delegation, at 9:30 Saturday night, just before he left. It was given to the Russian embassy in London, and after withdrawal of the note from the press, the Foreign Office said so that the British government might receive the text before it was published by the British papers.

A tone of conciliation and moderation, but firmness, permeates the note, which declares:

"The Soviet Government confirms M. Krassin's assurances to Great Britain that it is determined to remove all existing difficulties and causes of mutual complaint, and the two governments will endeavor to restore the friendly relations between the two countries."

M. Litvinov cautions almost like the last words of the note used by Soviet communists and newspapermen, that "in view of Chamberlain's note, with similar uncompromising expressions against the Soviet Union, we must be very careful."

Lord Birkenhead, L. C. M. Amy and Sir H. R. Wilson

Complaint is made that the British government has failed to accuse any of the Soviet diplomats of violation of existing agreements by the Soviet, continuing itself "with a single voice" in the famous Zinovieff letter, the author of which was discontinued.

No Agreement Exists

Declaring that no agreement exists between the two countries or speech within the boundaries of either country, M. Litvinov argues that the British government, in its anti-British propaganda, either the Soviet analysis of the situation or the Soviet's treatment of foreign countries, of Soviet discussions regarding the British government.

The note alludes to Sir Arthur Chamberlain's threat to annul the trade agreement or sever diplomatic relations if Great Britain did not demands that will bring about a complete and final conclusion.

"If the British government thinks that the Soviet Union is a threat to the interests of the British people and general peace, the time has come to make a full responsibility for the ensuing consequences."

Capt. James Christopher Carruthers, rector of Holy Trinity Anglican church and padre to the 19th Alberta Dragoons, received a present of a handsome black traveling bag, the size of his brother's coat, containing a regular monthly dinner of the officers' mess held at the church. Forage Crop Train Over C.P.R. Lines

The train consisted of baggage car, first class car and sleeping car. The baggage car was used for the purpose of carrying samples of seeds which were sold during the exhibition. The first class car was fitted up for the comfort of those who wanted to sit in style. The end of this car was arranged so that samples of the various seeds could be exhibited to the public. The sleeping car was fitted up for the comfort of those who wanted to sleep in style. This train is being supplied and operated free of charge by the Canadian Pacific Railway to co-operate with the exhibition in bringing the best possible information on farming problems to the visitors along the lines in Central Alberta.

And Only One Was Killed!

Why this railroad accident at Demarest, Ga., did not prove one of the catastrophes of the decade is inexplicable as its cause. While traffic was heavy, the number of accidents was relatively small. A locomotive, baggage car and a passenger car on a westbound freight train, broke through and crashed to the ground fifty feet below, killing all but one and trapping the others. The engine, which was at the rear of the train, was not pulled into the gulch by those ahead of it. The engine was at the rear of the train.

What caused the structure to give way is unknown.

Western Customs Hearings Drawing Towards Conclusion

Interim Report on Prairie
Sittings Likely to be Submitted
Canadian Press

WINNIPEG, Feb. 28.—The royal commission investigating administration of the canseco department of oil probably will include hearings in Winnipeg on Tuesday afternoon. The commission will leave for Ottawa next week, and the hearings in the prairie provinces will be carried out.

While all three commissioners will go to Ottawa, it is unlikely that there will be any public sittings there. A conference of the three will take place, and it is possible that some kind of an interim report dealing with certain aspects of the prairie provinces may be made. Then Chief Commissioner Roy and Wright will go to their home provinces.

Ontario sittings of the commissioners, which are regarded as being more important, will begin on April 1st, not open until March 21st.

At the conclusion of the Ontario hearings, the commissioners will visit a couple of places in Quebec, probably Montreal and Quebec City, and then return to Ottawa.

Two more days will be spent in Quebec, and then the commissioners will be back in Ottawa to make a final report to the principal committee of the Senate. Up to the present 20 plotters have been engaged in bringing 'em in here.

For the last few years he has been engaged in bringing 'em in here, and he has been doing a great deal of work on Ontario farms, a movement in western provinces. Last year $600,000 worth of oil was produced in western provinces, one-third of which was paid over to the banks. All the oil produced goes to the banks.

The Memory May Longer.

An Opposition member says it would take 200 years to pay off the national debt at the present rate. That only shows that the government which piled up the debt was in power too long. But perhaps if the country has to wait on paying for the war, the number of centenarians will be that long before it tolerates another Government of that kind.

For Material For Ammunition.

Having asked for and secured a copy of the correspondence which passed between Lord Byng and Major-General MacBrien, Opposition members are now probably trying to remember what it was they thought they wanted it for. The contents do not suggest that they ever supposed they could make political ammunition out of it of a kind that would be safe to handle. Neither do the returns from the polls taken last October.

Wobbling Wu.

They will not do it, of course, but if Chang Tso Lin and Mr. Chen could agree to call a truce to their feud and concentrate their talents and armies on the task of eliminating Wu-Pei-Fu, perhaps some of the plotters who would prefer a lessened size for the news media readers of certain continents who desire a turn-out. It might be good business, too, for hotel parties. Wu changes sides so often that neither one knows who has bought him last.

Shanghai and Manchuria.

China, the neighboring country who felt disposed to criticize Great Britain for sending troops to Shanghai will with interest that 500 more United States marines and black-jackets have been landed in Nicaragua. Britain had a definite treaty to show that its subjects in Shanghai had a right to be there and were free from danger of armed attack by native rebels. And British zones in China are far more numerous, and their seafaring interests far more vast than are United States citizens in Nicaragua and the property in territories they represent.

A Chance To Die-Arm.

Japanese diplomats suggest that the United States, having nothing to fear from foreign powers, should set them an example by reducing its armament to the minimum. The proposal is not likely to be welcomed at Washington, but the premises can hardly be challenged. No country, unless it is a small one, would think of attacking the United States.

This is peculiarly situated to illustrate the folly of maintaining armament beyond apparent need. And who can say that the example would be without influence?

Taking Things In Order.

The Calgary Herald is hardly satisfied with Mr. Robb's financials. While noting with approval that he is cutting down taxes, it is disposed to be disappointed that he is not also cutting down expenditure. The Herald is looking something. Mr. Robb did his pruning of expenditure while the country was still behind. When he got the country well within the limits of the income he began to lower the tax rates.

As nearly always follows when that is done with judgment, the revenue grew larger, not smaller. Now it is large enough to meet the reduced expenditure and clip from twenty to thirty million off the tax bill during next year. The need for further retrenchment of expenditure is not pressing, and to reduce it much farther would bring a protest that the public services were being starved without need. Expenditure is not opposed when the money is secured through reduced taxation.

Looking Ahead.

Speaking at Ottawa, Major-General MacBrien stated that the Dominion Government plans to construct a squadron of fighting airplanes, while Canadian officers are now consulting with British authorities in regard to the erection of a mounting mast in Canada for trans-Atlantic airships.

The latter is a commercial undertaking. It is designed primarily to help in the establishment of an airship service between Britain and Canada, for the carriage of passengers, mails and express. But the mail will be available for the accommodation of air carriers from any point on either side of the Atlantic en route to the other.

Canada is most favorably situated to be the landing place for airships from any point in South America, jumping off points for return voyages. The Dominion would be ignoring an opportunity if it did not take steps at once to provide the facilities without which the airship cannot make a landing. That these aerial conveyors will be crossing the ocean on regular schedules within a year or so is practically certain. It is time now to start about preparing "ports" for them in Canada.

The airplane will be an addition to the national defences. Their construction may be taken to indicate the means by which it is proposed that Canada shall contribute its share of the machinery with which to secure the Empire and its interests against attack. The airplane is a very effective instrument against invasion, whether by land, sea or air. The record of Canadian men in the late war is assurance that when the fighting machines are ready they will not want skilful and daring men to handle them.

The estimates brought down at Ottawa last week carry an increased appropriation for air service. What the total is not large, but increasing, and the Dominion Government is alive to the possibility of the airplane and the sky, whether for business or defence. The announcement of Major-General MacBrien is assurance that there is a forward-looking policy in respect to both types of craft and to both purposes.

Life

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Argue things as you will.

Press forward or stand still.

Smile and laugh and pain

Pain and return again.

Join with this throng or that.

Leave it and go your own way.

Put on your cap or cardinal's hat.

Still day or night.

Lighting the eastern skies.

The world goes on despite

Our thoughts or dreams.

Still day or night.

Still fly the streams.

Will the blossoms care

What the world does?

Time on us each leaves

A stretch of years

But still unchanged it goes

Not time but ours to bear

The anguish of despair.

Each at his little post

Must strive to make the most

Of what life gives.

Men are born to remain,

Hunger and thirst and pain.

Women's Rights

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Women's rights simple means giving women the same privileges as men and breaking the age-old slavery to which they have been subject. This means man-slavery and slaves, and slaves in the South who object to being slaves. They found the status of master and slave to be very pleasant. It doubles the number of cases and contained many ameliorating conditions.

The condition of women is much like that of slaves. They are to be used and broken, to be made to do all the work, to be given no rest, to be given no time to be alone, to be given no privacy, to be given no pleasure.

The fundamental basis, however, for good man-woman relations is the equality of the woman.

When she is able to stand upon her own feet she is a woman in the true sense.

When she is economically dependent she has to do what she wants.

The woman of slaves for many thousands of years has been that of a slave, that is, she has been the slave of man's enjoyment and supposed welfare of that purpose.

Only emerging into the condition of being an equal and a person in her own right does she become a woman in the true sense.

Thus the woman-warrior, however, is entitled to the highest respect. She is much more independent than the mother of slaves.

THINKS CANADA SHOULD SHARE RESPONSIBILITY

Conservative Leader States Views at Princess Pats Club Banquet

Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.—That Canada at some time will have to carry the burden of empire defense and that the Canadian government's present movement was actually not sufficient to render an independent nation among the members of the Commonwealth, was among the sentiments of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie, leader of the Conservative party in Canada, in his speech at the annual dinner of the Prince of Wales Club in the Armouries here on Saturday night.

Mr. Guthrie traced the growth of military strength in the armed forces from the time of Wolfe and then plunged into the subject of independence. His views were that Canada should be self-governing but without dependence.

World Politics.

"I believe," he said, "that world politics should make us realize that Great Britain is more powerful today than any other nation, than any other nation, than any other power in the world, than has ever been before."

"But decisions of an international nature, such as those made at the League of Nations, as in 1919, and I think we should rest our case with Great Britain, in international questions or complications arising."

"I believe, too, that Canada should not be content to merely back in the sun and let others do the steering and the piloting, when the privilege of Empire is given to us, when we are prepared to assume the position of the leaders of empire defense."

"In my opinion, there is little or nothing to eat that burden. Australia, for example, does so little now. New Zealand and the like, when this question must be definitely settled, will be guided by political considerations."

Vincent Massey Guest
Famous Gridiron Club

Canadian Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Public men and current affairs got their share of attention at the annual meeting of the Washington newspaper correspondents on Saturday night's winter dinner of the famous gridiron club, distinguished company, including President Coolidge, Secretary of State, diplomats, governors of states and leaders in national affairs, gathered at the Carlton Club for the first time, was represented by Vincent Massey, the Dominion's first minister to the United States, and his first public appearance.

SECRET ARMAMENTS.

Toronto Globe: European nations which have been the chief beneficiaries of its permanency would perhaps be more impressed by Germany's remarkable secret armaments than by America's. If disclosures had not been made in the press, it would have been assumed with Russia by the agents of the Monarchy party to be the chief source of the secret armaments and guns used by the military branch of the revolution throughout the Republic. After these disclosures, confirmation of the details of which has failed to impress the public, it is possible to credit Minister of Defense Gieseler's declaration that Germany's secret armaments are nothing but a phantom. Minister Gieseler says that secret armaments are utterly impossible because armaments valuable in modern warfare are too expensive for such magnitude that it is impossible to keep them secret. He adds that it is only partially valid, and that material costs have not prevented Germany from carrying out her secret armaments like the Polish from carrying out their secret armaments of recent manufacture discovered not many months ago, and by the latest reports, Germany's secret armaments are under military control of the country taken over by the secret armament board, based on the League of Nations' inspection of her armaments, which will end greater freedom.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.—Parliamentary activities will be suspended this week for the termination of the debate on the budget.

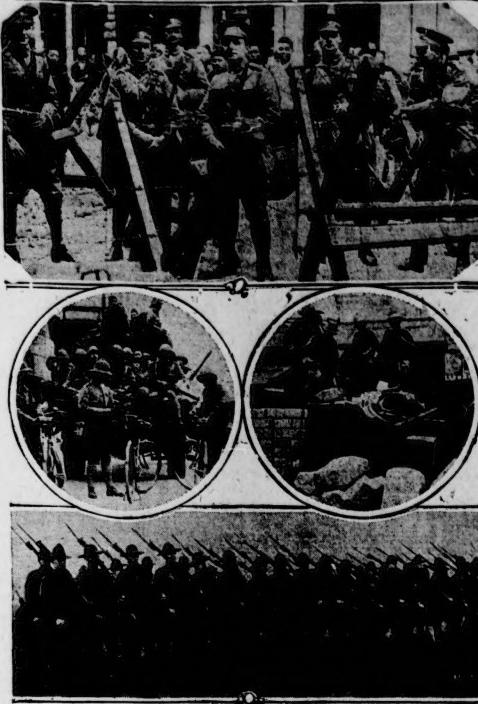

Tuesday is mentioned as the probable date for the vote, and the carrying of the main motion by committee.

Should the discussion on the budget go on longer, the government, in its view, will be compelled to postpone the introduction of the old age pension bill and the measure for the revision of the solider's pension bill, and the government is ready to do so.

The old age pension bill and the measure for the revision of the soldier's pension bill are to be introduced for the consideration of the Senate.

The maritime rights report will probably be before the house full definitely next week.

"I haven't an idea, and—excuse me—I shouldn't tell you if I had."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Death strikes — GARRETT 2000, the brawny bartender of Ocean Town, N.J. It is thought at first he is a suicide victim, but investigation has shown he was stabbed to death beneath the water.

Folsom's swimming companion, his business partner, HILLIE, a woman; MRS. HELEN BARNAHAY and CARL MELTON, his business partner, it is established that Folsom, just as he was about to drown, was standing next to NEIL RIGGS, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, companion and maid, stands silent, does not move, and takes command. The impact is lessened, but the blow is still there. She was a piazza, an Oriental knife, and she has been buried in the boardwalk.

It is also established that on CRYSTAL BEACH, Folsom is a fancier of curious knives. Anastasia, who is very fond of Neilie, is sent to work on the case. DAN PEIJTON, the dead man's nephew, is sent to interview the curious French dolls in Garrett Peijton's basement.

He believes his uncle had been blackmailed, so he sends his maid and Riggs discover suspicious documents in Folsom's safe. They find a copy of Croydon Year Book, which she is anxious to recover some letters that were in Folsom's possession before he died. Riggs takes her and she leaves.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI
Carmella evinced no anger, but she quit him, and moved, but as she went off the Duchess observed:

"She's mad clear through. See it sticking out of her back."

"She's mad clear through," said Neilie. "Now, Riggs cards on the table, and the Duchess is to stay."

"It'll go them," and Mrs. Barnaby rose with an air of "I told you so."

"You know I should have stayed, and I know I'd have to die."

With her head, seemingly vapor, but real vapor, Neilie took the direction Carmella had taken.

"Great little old woman?" and Neilie's eyes were wide.

"Does she know anything?"

"I don't mean generally speaking."

"I mean about me. Folsom's dead."

"Good Lord! How should she?"

"I don't know how she should, but that doesn't argue that she doesn't."

"I don't know how she should, but I really need to talk to her."

Riggs' face was the man, for the moment. Riggs' mind, actually passing through the stages of vapors had begun to crystallize suddenly, and he was again the man he wanted to be.

"I'm going to speak much about it," Neilie said. "I mean, have you heard or gathered anything that would lead you to believe that you must be interested in getting at the truth?"

"I dare say I ought to be the other way around, but I can't help looking at these things as some people do."

"To dig into that man's past would not only mean a lot of expense, but it would bring a lot of trouble and annoyance for other people who, were not involved."

"We've only got time for that."

"The last time I saw him, he was uncomfortable."

You may like this sort of probing, but I don't. I mean, I don't like it. You go and tell him so, but let him go and tell him so."

Neville was on the verge of tears again, but Riggs made some laughing report, and sauntered away.

Neilie returned together, he went to the door.

"Right as wet put it through."

"Then it?" he asked, noting the vigorous glow of the fire to follow.

"Hathorn," answered Neilie. "Baron, who came over the night we swam—how far did we swim. One million miles, at a rough guess."

"How long?"

"Two days."

SENATORS ARE DEFEATED BY AMERICANS 3-2

Connell Penalized and Joe Simpson Scores Final Goal

Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The New York Americans broke their losing streak with a 3-2 victory over the Senators, who had lost three of four games. The Americans led 2 to 1 in this season's second period, but were beaten Saturday night when they defeated the leaders of the International Hockey League, 3-2. N. H. MacLean, coach of the Americans, was in a contest which went 15 seconds overtime.

Alex McKinnon netted the winning tally in a score from the blue line which came from a deflection of a shot by Connell. The Americans had won all but one of their games and ended one of the most exciting and strenuous of professional hockey.

Connell Penalties

The Americans were held for the second time with five minutes of the third period when the Americans, still in the Ottawa goal, and two other Senators were on the bench, and the referee, Mr. J. M. MacLean, two of their stewards. Joe Simpson took the ball from the referee and dumped the puck past King Clancy who was temporary custodian for the Americans. MacLean was temporarily suspended for the second time. It was Ottawa's seventh defeat of the season, three of which have been scored by the Americans.

Cannadians Show Too Much Speed to Bruins

Canadian Press

The meeting between the respective second-place teams in the National Hockey League resulted in a repeat of the 1925-26 season when the Canadians in recent games here had the Bruins handles speed coming from the bench.

While Canadians were peeling the skin off the Bruins, the Americans at Winkler, the Bruins struck found the way to the finish in the game. The Americans almost won the game, but only 13 shots as far as Hains worth during the 85 minutes.
